HISTORICAL NOTE

Located in the southern half of the Nebraska Panhandle, Cheyenne County is one of the more historically colorful counties of the state and was organized in 1870. Sidney, Nebraska is the county seat. Prior to organization the county was attached to Lincoln County for administrative and judicial purposes, 1867-1870.

The county has a rich historical background relating to the Pony Express, the Union Pacific Railroad, pioneers on the Oregon Trail, and the Indians.

The county, named after the Cheyenne Indians, was officially organized three years after the Union Pacific Railroad first crossed the area. It was mostly inhabited by indians at the time.

Fort Sidney was formed as "Sidney Barracks" in 1867 to protect the Union Pacific employees. It remained a fort until 1894 when it was abandoned. The Pony Express had three stations located in the county. The Nebraska, Wyoming and Western RR branch of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co. was constructed through the county in 1899.

Kimball, Banner, Scotts Bluff, Deuel, Morrill, and Garden counties were all formed out of the original area encompassing Cheyenne County, 7,460 square miles. Today the county consists of 1,196 square miles and has a population of 9,494. Peak population was in 1960 at 14,828.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection consists of the records of Cheyenne County, Nebraska, arranged into nine subgroups: 1) Assessor, 1984-1993; 2) Treasurer, (no records); 3) County Commissioners (no records); 4) County Clerk, 1870-1944; 5) Register of Deeds (no records); 6) County Court, 1882-1906; 7) District Court (no records); 8) Superintendent of Schools (no records); and 9) School District Records consists of photocopies of School District #67, 1887-1889.
