HISTORICAL NOTE

The Crete Mills, Crete, Nebraska, the oldest milling firm in the state continuous operation, began as a tiny water-powered sawmill located on the Big Blue River at the southern edge of what became the town of Crete, Nebraska. Converted to flour milling in 1870, the building was destroyed by fire in 1880 and re-built by 1882 under the ownership of Bridges and Johnston. This firm built another mill to grind corn on the north side of Crete in 1881 which continued operating until 1912 when it too was destroyed by fire.

Late in 1882 Charles Clark White acquired the Johnston interest in this partnership which then became Bridges and White and later White and Glade. White was born in Sylvania, near Toledo, Ohio, February 24, 1843 where he attended the public schools and local academy until the age of eighteen. He had intended to become a teacher but instead enlisted in the 9th Illinois Cavalry and during the Civil War was imprisoned at Libby and Belle Isle. In 1864 he settled near Raymond, Nebraska, where he farmed to support his widowed mother and his sisters. On January 19, 1868, he marries Miss. Olive A. Johnson, a teacher from Valparaiso, Nebraska. He was elected county treasurer of Lancaster County in 1873 and re-elected in 1875. After his term of office expired he move his family to Valparaiso to build a flour mill there in 1878. In 1880 he was elected state senator from Saunders County and that same year was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He served as mayor and councilman of Valparaiso.

In 1883 White moved to Crete where he had purchased half interest in the Crete Mills. White was a trustee and president of the Crete Chautauqua, a member of the Board of Education of Crete, and a benefactor and president of the Board of Trustees of Nebraska Wesleyan University. After a brief illness, White died in 1895.

Subsequently, Albert L. Johnston, a brother-in-law of White who had begun working at the Crete Mills in 1888, became General Superintendent and in 1900 President when the firm was incorporated. Under Johnston's management the mill was modernized and enlarged. Soon after 1900 the two mills were converted from direct water power when turbines and generators were installed and the water used to produce electricity. In 1908 Johnston bought a small mill in Curtis, Nebraska, which was absorbed in the Crete Mills in 1913. Following a fire in 1912, major re-building program was undertaken.

In 1919 construction began on the present site of the mill at rail side in downtown Crete. By 1921 the present flour mill was completed and in operation. 1929 a feed mill was constructed, a corn mill built in 1936, and another large feed mill added in 1949. A.L. Johnston retired as President in January 1948 and died the following May. He was succeeded as head of the mill by his son Benjamin L. Johnston. In 1953 the Crete Mills was purchased by the Lauhoff Grain Company of Danville, Illinois. In 1963 Lauhoff sold the Crete Mills to Cargill. The Crete Mills is currently (as of 2011) owned and operated by Bunge Milling which is headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri.

The Crete Mills, which began mixing feed in 1907, is among the oldest formula feed operations in the United States. One of its best-known products, last made in 1935, was sold under the brand name "Victor Flour." It now produces diversified cereal products including wheat, rye, and buckwheat flour for home and poultry feed, and dog food, as well as high protein soy mix and bulgar wheat for over-seas consumption.
