Records: 1872 – 1967
Cubic Feet: 80
Approx. 833 volumes

HISTORIC NOTE

L’Eau Qui Court County was established and its boundaries defined by an act approved February 10, 1857, and redefined January 13, 1860. The name, L’Eau Qui Court, is French for “running water”, the same meaning for the Indian word, Niobrara, a name for a river flowing along a portion of the county’s northern border. An act approved February 21, 1871 changed the county’s name to Knox in honor of Major General Henry Knox (1750 – 1806) who served as a General and Secretary of War under George Washington. Niobrara, located on the Missouri River, was selected as the county seat by an act of the State Legislature approved on February 14, 1877. Later, in 1881, after the devastating Missouri River flood which destroyed much of the town, the county seat was moved to Center, Nebraska.
