HISTORICAL NOTE

Washington County, located in eastern Nebraska on the Missouri River, was explored as early as 1739 by Paul and Pierre Mallet, who were on a trapping expedition to Canada. In 1804, Lewis and Clark reported the establishment of the new United States Government to a Council of Indian Chiefs near the present site of Fort Calhoun. As a result of this Council, Fort Atkinson was established in 1819 and served as a key midwestern outpost until its abandonment in 1827.

The first permanent settlement in Washington County was made in 1854. In that same year, the county was organized as one of the eight original counties proclaimed by acting Governor Thomas B. Cuming. The county seat has been located in three different towns: Fort Calhoun, Desoto, and finally at Blair, its present site since 1869.
