HISTORICAL NOTE

The Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Commission was established to prepare and administer state plans for use of federal funds provided in grant programs under Title I of the Federal Higher Education Act of 1963 and Title VI of the Federal Higher Education Act of 1965. The former provided funds to finance construction of certain types of academic facilities needed to expand enrollment capacity. The latter provided federal funds for improvement of undergraduate instruction in selected subject areas.

The first meeting of the commission was held May 13, 1964. The members appointed by the governor represent the general public as well as public and private on-profit and proprietary institutions of postsecondary education. The commission collects information about the status of higher education in Nebraska and prepares projections of future trends.

In 1973 the commission became an advisory body to the State Office of Planning and Programming; its name was changed to Nebraska Coordinating Council for Postsecondary Education; and its duties were broadened to include the administration of the State Student Incentive Grant Program.

This body has become popularly known as the "1202 Commission," so-called after a section in the federal Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended in 1972.
