HISTORICAL NOTE

Garden County, located north of the North Platte River along the Oregon and Mormon Trails was formed from northern Deuel County in November, 1909.

Ash Hollow, a canyon three miles southeast of Lewellen, in Garden County, was near the site of a famous conflict between General Harney and his troops and the Sioux Indians in 1855. The earliest grave in this area dates back to 1849 and remains have been found in the Ash Hollow Cave which date around 8000 B.C. The area was explored as early as 1812. A trading post existed near Ash Hollow in 1851 to service the emigrants on the Oregon and Mormon Trails. Ash Hollow is now a State Historical Park.

The Oshkosh Land and Cattle Company was located near the present site of Oshkosh, then in Cheyenne County, in 1885. A post office was established there May 24, 1886. When Cheyenne County was divided in 1888, the Land and Cattle Co. and Oshkosh existed in Deuel County. With the arrival of the Union Pacific Railroad through the county, petitions were circulated and Garden County formed in 1909. Oshkosh became the county seat at the time of organization of the county.

The county was named for its potential to become a Garden spot of Nebraska, with fertile lands and ample water supply. The present population is 2,460 (1990).
