BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Governor Orr was born in Burlington, Iowa, January 2, 1939, the daughter of Ralph Robert and Sadie Lucille (Skoglund) Stark. She attended the University of Iowa, 1956-1957. Kay Orr was married to William Dayton Orr, September 26, 1957. Bill Orr was born at Waukon, Iowa, March 15, 1935, the son of Lester D and Carolyn (Dayton) Orr. He also attended the University of Iowa where he received his B.S. Degree. In 1963 they moved to Omaha, Nebraska. The Orr's have two children, John William Orr and Suzanne Gage.

Kay Orr began her political career when she volunteered as a Republican party worker in 1964. She held a variety of offices in both the Young Republican and senior party organizations. In the first year of her involvement with the party, and in following years, she was Lancaster county precinct chairman of the Young Republicans. She was also secretary of both the state central and executive committees, a national committeewoman, and state vice-chairman of the Young Republicans. Her early political view was to curb big government in Washington and increase support for local government.

Early in her political career, Orr worked for Richard Nixon, Carl Curtis, Roman Hruska, and Nobby Tiemann. In 1969 she was named an Outstanding Young Republican Woman in Nebraska.

In 1976 Kay Orr was co-chairman with Milan Bush of Grand Island in Ronald Reagan's Nebraska presidential primary campaign and was elected as a delegate to the GOP National Convention in Kansas City. She served on the Platform Committee at the Convention. In 1984 she made Republican party history when she was named co-chairman of the GOP National Platform Committee. This honor usually went to a member of Congress or a state governor.

In 1977 she became campaign coordinator for Charles Thone in his fourth-term bid as First District Representative. The next year she directed Thone's campaign for the governorship and was appointed the first woman chief-of-staff to a governor after his election. In June of 1981, Thone chose Mrs. Orr to fill the vacancy in the office of State Treasurer. In 1982 she became the first woman ever elected to a statewide constitutional office in Nebraska when she won a four-year term in this office.

In a close race against Helen Boosalis, former mayor of Lincoln, Nebraska, 1975-1983, for governor in 1986, Kay Orr emerged victorious to become the first Republican woman in the nation's history to be elected a governor. She served from January 1987 through December 1990. At the time of her campaign she was a trustee of Hastings College; a member of the National Agricultural Research and Extension Users Advisory Board to the U. S. Department of Agriculture; and a member of the President's Advisory Committee on the Arts, John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts. She was also a charter member of Women Executives in State Government; a former vice-president, Midwest Chapter, National Association of State Treasurers; and a life member of the Lincoln General Hospital Auxiliary.

At the time of her election, William Dayton Orr was senior vice-president for Woodman Accident and Life Insurance Company. Her son John was a grain merchandiser in Omaha, Nebraska, and her daughter, Suzanne Gage, was a admissions representative for Hastings College and lived in Omaha, Nebraska.

Kay Orr's administration promised to concentrate on job creation in Nebraska; to develop assistance to small communities suffering from agricultural distress; and work towards improvements in national farm policy. A significant issue during this administration was the changes implemented in the Nebraska tax laws giving incentive to business expansion in Nebraska.
