What will I find in this collection?

RG5709.AM: The manuscript portion of this collection consists of nine three-ring binders, mostly containing genealogical research on various families including, Struble, Prouty, Riley, Rease, Lamb, and Lovell. The materials in the family binders include copies of items from the 1800s-2000s as well as correspondence and other genealogical resources. One binder contains letters from Leo Struble to his parents in Ravenna, Nebraska. The letters date from 1918-1920 during Struble's service in World War I. Struble was stationed at an evacuation hospital at Vladivostok, Siberia. Additional WWI letters from Struble are contained in the "Struble Family" genealogy binder.

RG5709.PH: The photo component for this collection consists of two photo albums and 193 loose photos and picture postcards. The photo albums contain family photos relating to the Struble, Lamb, Lovell, and Rease families. The loose photos and picture postcards were collected by Leo Struble while serving in Siberia during World War I. Additional photographs are scattered throughout the various family genealogy binders in the manuscript portion of the collection.
