

Researcher List

Reference Information Guide No. 11

02.27.2023

On occasion, the Library/Archives/Reference Division of History Nebraska receives research requests that go beyond the scope and time limit of what staff can provide. In response to such requests, the Division provides the following list of researchers-for-hire. These individuals, listed alphabetically, are not on staff at History Nebraska and their inclusion on the list does not constitute an endorsement of any kind. You may contact any of these individuals at the addresses listed. Any agreement reached with one of these researchers is a personal contract between two private parties and does not involve History Nebraska. The following summaries are unedited transcriptions of what the individuals submitted to us.

Dr. Joachim EylJoachim.Eyl@t-online.de

If you have discovered that your ancestors came from Germany, I would be delighted to help you find out more about them. I'm a professional genealogist situated in Germany with 15 years of genealogical research experience. As a German resident, I have access to all major archives (church, governments, state and local) as well as the German emigrant databases. Building on relevant data about your ancestry that you already have, I can supply additional information about the place they came from and perhaps about their real estate holdings. I am able to transcribe and translate all documents written in German and would be available to accompany you when visiting German archives. I will correspond in English and my fees, which are reasonable, can be easily transmitted via PayPal. References furnished upon request.
